America sits on the dissipating illusion of her solid fabric and strength. Whole cloth, manufactured to fail and steal thread by thread by those who hold power. The fabric of bounty is tattered and moth eaten, yet believers sit in utter contempt of the realities because conventional wisdom is more prized than my Spirit.

As was said, you are poor and naked, yet do you contend to be full and prosperous. You are blinded by a world system that has lied for decades about the definition of wealth and strength.

I warn you as before to come out from her, by Gold and Silver refined by fire.
