This I have against you America. You have have extended your debt into the future to be paid at another time by another generation. You have used this debt as leverage for ill gotten gains. This debt and the way you manage it is an example of how you relate to me. You put me off for another time and seek to make incremental payments to me now. It is usury.

I will require the fullness of your debt in short order. Standing naked and hungry you will question why I have forsaken you. I will ask you the same question in that very hour.

Life as you have known it is going to change in a radical way. You are not entitled to the life you have been living. I am not a debt to be serviced, I require full payment now.

Many will fall away as I bring your country to it's knees; some will despair to the point of death; yet some shall be saved.

Your trust in the systems of men will fail you. You will go here and you will look there yet you will not find things as they were when you laid your head to rest the night before.

Those with ears will seek me now and I will bring them wisdom and understanding. Be not wise in your own eyes, lean not on your own understanding because what is coming you have never seen. But when you see it you will know and you will regret the wasted time and forsaken wisdom.

Pay now for what will be unaffordable then.
