As the pain of her sins, her adulteries, her pride breaks on her, the church will be crushed under the weight. Her emotional affair with idols will bring ruin to her door and set fire the whole house. She will turn to her idols in that day of torment and they will give her false counsel. They will lead her to back to her self serving arrogance and she will be left destitute. But you oh bridegroom shall remain constant and be ready for her to return as she feels your pain and sorrow breaking on the land.
